"I was in the midst of looking for the best way to consolidate several different large debts into a single, lower monthly payment with lower interest, all while also looking to purchase a new vehicle for my family. If anyone else is like me, you end up overthinking and second-guessing every aspect of what you think is right when making major decisions like this. I needed someone to consult with but didn't know where to turn. Just when the stress became too overwhelming and I was ready to call it quits, BrightDime was my voice of reason.

Angela and Caleb were there for me every step of the way. I bombarded them with a gauntlet of questions about every possible scenario I could think of. For every question I had, they were there to guide me down the right path and give me a thorough explanation of why they believed it would be the best action to take. With their help, I felt very confident about the plan we put together. I pulled the trigger on these major financial decisions and as a result my finances are in a much better place. I can't thank BrightDime enough for being there when I needed them".
